Introduction

This guide contains important information about the services we offer, how we and our associates are paid, any potential conflict of interest we may have and our internal and external dispute resolution procedure and how you can access it.

Best Interest Advice Pty Ltd has held an Australian Financial Services Licence Number 292925 since 2006. Its services are varied, and it authorises individuals and corporates to provide fee-based advice to Australian individuals and small and medium size companies.

- Notice of independence as required under the Corporations Act 2021.
- Best Interest Advice AFSL 292925 and its various divisions are required to insert the following into our financial services guide declaring that we are not independent, impartial, or unbiased within the meaning of the corporations' act and here is why.
- The law makes it exceedingly difficult for most advisers in today's marketplace to say they are independent, unbiased, or impartial, even if they are not linked in any way to a financial product provider like a bank or insurance company like we are. We have been determined for a long time to offer advice to our clients that is in their best interest and in some cases, it will involve servicing their insurance or bank products where a commission has been built into the product. The receipt of this commission means that we cannot call ourselves independent or unbiased.
- It does not, in any way, mean that the advice is any less appropriate. We always provide advice that is in the clients' best interest and meets their goals and objectives and is fee based so this takes out of play any conflict of interest.

Our AFS Licence permits us to advise on, and deal in, the following classes of financial products:

- deposit and payment products
- government debentures, stocks or bonds
- general insurance products
- investment life insurance products
- interest in managed investment schemes
- investor directed portfolio services
- RSA products
- life risk
- insurance products
- managed investments
- retirement income streams
- securities
- standard margin lending facilities
- superannuation
- self-managed superannuation funds

- Applying for, acquiring, varying, or disposing of a financial product on behalf of another person.

We may give you other documents when providing our services. These may include:

- Statements of Advice and records of advice - If we provide you with advice about your personal circumstances, we will set out our advice in a Statement of Advice (or in some cases, a shorter document called a Record of Advice). This will also tell you how we will be remunerated for the advice we give you. When we provide further advice to you, we may not give you a Statement of Advice, however we will record the advice and you can ask us for a copy of the advice by calling us.
- Product Disclosure Statements - If we recommend that you acquire a financial product, we will also provide you with a Product Disclosure Statement containing information about the products features and risks.
- Other Marketing material- This may include TMD's, EDM's and Fact sheets that describe risk profiles and exchange traded funds. All documents can be delivered in paper form or via a digital platform.

What information should I provide to receive personal advice?

Our advisers will only provide advice after you agree to the terms of our Financial Services Guide. You will then be required to complete an online or phone based personal fact find which will collect your personal information, goals and objectives, financial situation and needs. If you do not provide accurate information about your situation, the advice you receive may not be appropriate to your needs. We will also collect information from other means like the tax agent portal and other data sources only with your prior approval. This will assist us in getting an accurate and full picture of your financial position from which to provide a recommendation. We cannot provide appropriate advice unless we receive accurate information.

What is the difference between getting general advice and personal advice?

General advice is given only if your adviser clarifies with you (the client), when they give the advice, that they are not giving personal advice, because they do not consider the relevant circumstances (i.e., your objectives, financial situation or needs). We will also issue a warning that it is general advice. If you choose to receive general advice, then it will be without considering your objectives, financial situation or needs (s949A (2) (a) of the Corporations Act. You should then consider whether this advice is appropriate to your needs before you enlist us to provide personal advice.

What is the definition of a sophisticated investor? Some clients may consider themselves a sophisticated Investor and this can provide concessions. A sophisticated Investor can receive advice from us. A sophisticated Investor is someone who has had a gross annual income of $250,000 or more in each of the previous two years or has net assets of at least $2.5 million, (including the family home) as prescribed by the Corporations Regulations 2001 (reg 6D.2.03 and reg 7.1.28). Although clients may meet the criteria of a sophisticated Investor, we are required to conduct due diligence to confirm their investment experience and ability to understand investment principles and terminology. If a person is certified as a sophisticated Investor or wholesale client, they do not have the following protection. The provision of a financial services guide, a statement of advice, the advisers' best interest duty and related obligations and the bans on some conflicted remuneration that a retail Investor has. We will qualify you first before we provide advice to you as a sophisticated investor. The cost of advice may be less if you are a sophisticated investor.

What do we charge for the advice and services we provide?

Before you engage us to provide personal advice, we will outline in our engagement letter to you with an estimate of the fees that will be charged based on the scope of the advice. Our fees are reasonable and based on putting you in a better financial position. Our minimum yearly retainer fee is $2,000 p.a. ex GST. A separate cost will apply for the preparation of a statement of advice that will address the some of the following:

Other financial services- Robo advice

Robo-advice is automated financial advice you can get online. You enter your information, for example, your personal details, investment goals and risk tolerance. Then the advice is generated using algorithms and digital technology. Robo-advice might be cheaper and more convenient than a financial adviser, but it has limitations. Most robo-advice only offers a narrow range of services. A computer program can't help you set goals or objectives. It can't answer your questions, and it can't give you advice about complex financial situations.

Financial Choice Direct Portfolios with automatic rebalancing

We offer tailored Investment portfolios for clients under the Financial Choice Direct Portfolios brand. We use a global adviser and asset consultant, and they are paid a retainer fee by Best Interest Advice to provide us with daily updates and monthly videos on global economic conditions. These updates and advice provide intelligence on asset allocation on which ETF's we should use to maximise the performance of these portfolios. These videos and market updates are only for Financial Choice customers and are not distributed to other subscribers. In addition to the three tailored portfolios, we also offer two other thematic portfolios focusing on sustainability and alternative energy and income. We receive an investment management fee of 0.50% of the amount invested up to $500,000. There is a scaling fee for amounts higher than that figure. These are low-cost portfolios chosen by the investor. We do not have a conflict of interest because the portfolios are investor directed.
